

Are you a charity short on Volunteers?

If you are a charity wanting to recruit more Volunteers, then The Big Help Out weekend taking place 7th – 9th June might just be what you need. The Big Help Out Weekend coincides with National Volunteering Week, this gives people who can't volunteer during the week an opportunity to do so at the weekend in their spare time.

The weekend gives members of the public an opportunity to 'lend a hand' at a local charity like yours. This could be for as little as an hour or as much as both days on that weekend. It is the aim that giving people this chance to experience what it is like to volunteer might just be the drive needed for people to volunteer more and more of their own time to local charities and in doing so help their local community.

The Big Help Out launched an App on Tuesday 16th April 2024, this is where you have the chance to upload your organisations offer for the public to see and decide whether they want to support your organisation by volunteering that weekend or any other time they can.

To upload your information to the app then click on this link:

<https://admin.doit.life/together/invite/partner/4a281362-e950-47c2-9d6c-7c5290eb0d8b/signup>

The Big Help Out understand that the message needs to get out there and know for some organisations, knowing what to post on social media can take some time. They have made a whole cache of social media posts and imagery for your charity to use: <https://drive.google.com/drive/folders/1kppdYqePn5-8MgxCGWlxkl-79DIkycOH>

Hopefully The Big Help Out (<https://www.thebighelpout.org.uk/>) is something your organisation will want to take part in and showcase the brilliant volunteering opportunities you have to offer.